Download for Free: Robert F. Kennedy's New Book — 'A Letter to Liberals'

05/02/23 • COVID › NEWS

Exclusive: Spike in Rare Brain Infections in Kids Raises More Questions Than Answers

The number of rare, life-threatening brain abscesses in children more than tripled in Southern Nevada in 2022, and hospitals in other parts of the country also reported unusual spikes. Two doctors interviewed by The Defender explained how the timing suggests COVID-19 vaccines could be a factor.

By Brenda Baletti, Ph.D.

47

Miss a day, miss a lot. Subscribe to The Defender's Top News of the Day. It's free.

The number of rare, life-threatening brain abscesses in children more than tripled in Southern Nevada in 2022, triggering an investigation by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which last week issued a report confirming the increase and calling for additional research to identify risk factors.

Doctors in other parts of the country similarly observed a spike in the number of cases in children since 2021, according to an NBC News report.

"In my 20 years' experience, I've never seen anything like it," Dr. Taryn Bragg told CNN. Bragg, an associate professor at the University of Utah, the only pediatric neurosurgeon in Nevada and the first to notice the spike, reported it to the CDC.

"After March of 2022, there was just a huge increase," in brain abscesses, Bragg said. "I was seeing large numbers of cases and that's unusual. And the similarities in terms of the presentation of cases was striking," Bragg said.

Some media reports pointed to lowered immunity due to lockdowns during the pandemic as a possible explanation for the increase in cases. And two physicians who spoke with The Defender suggested COVID-19 vaccines could be a factor — but to date, there is no official explanation for the spike.

Colds, sinus infections preceded brain abscesses in most cases

The CDC reported that in 2022, there were 18 cases of intracranial abscesses reported in Clark County, Nevada, up from an average of four cases per year from 2015-2021.

Most of the children in Nevada presented with colds or sinus infections that quickly progressed to abscesses forming in the brain, according to the CDC report.

A majority of the kids also showed the presence of the bacteria Streptococcus intermedius, which is commonly found in the oral and respiratory cavity, Bragg told Fox news.

"It often doesn't result in infections, but it certainly can — and it's the most common organism that will result in brain abscesses," she said.

None of the children died, but many of them required long-term antibiotics and multiple surgeries.

Brain abscesses are rare events caused when a bacteria or fungi crosses the blood-brain barrier and enters the brain, usually because of infection or injury. The body forms an abscess — a pus-filled pocket — to stop the condition from spreading.

If untreated, an abscess can lead to brain damage or death.

In children, causes can range from bacteria that move to the brain because of untreated middle ear infections, endocarditis or immune deficiencies like HIV, or they can be caused by parasites, Dr. Peter McCullough, internal medicine doctor and cardiologist in Dallas, Texas, told The Defender.

'It's not just us. It's hospitals all over the country.'

In May 2022, the CDC was alerted that three children in California were hospitalized concurrently for brain abscesses, also caused by Streptococcus intermedius.

In response, a team at the CDC led by Emma K. Accorsi, Ph.D., investigated a possible increase in pediatric streptococcal brain abscesses, epidural empyemas and subdural empyemas in California and other parts of the country.

Epidural empyemas and subdural empyemas also are pus-filled pockets that develop to protect the brain from an infection.

The CDC's report on those cases, issued in September 2022, analyzed reports of brain abscesses in children from 2016 to 2022, and identified a national increase in pediatric brain abscesses in summer 2021, followed by a peak in March 2022, and then a return to baseline.

The CDC concluded the increase was "consistent with historical seasonal fluctuations observed since 2016."

Another CDC report from August 2022 also reported a roughly 100% increase in brain abscesses, on average, across eight pediatric hospitals during the first two years of the pandemic.

Dr. Shaun Rodgers, a pediatric neurosurgeon at Cohen Children's Medical Center in New York told NBC News his hospital is still seeing an above-average number of brain abscesses, a trend that started around the end of 2022.

"It's not just us. It's hospitals all over the country," Rodgers said. "When we're talking to colleagues, it seems like everyone is feeling that we've definitely had an uptick in these types of infections."

What's driving the spike?

Dr. Jessica Penney, an epidemic intelligence officer with the CDC and lead author on the CDC's short investigation into the Nevada spike, told CNN she thought it was possible the spike was related to "immunity debt" from the lockdowns.

"Maybe in that period where kids didn't have these exposures, you're not building the immunity that you would typically get previously, you know with these viral infections," Penney said. "And so maybe on the other end when we had these exposures without that immunity from the years prior, we saw a higher number of infections."

Dr. Samir Shah, vice chair of Clinical Affairs And Education at Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center and a co-author of the report by Accorsi et al., made a similar argument to NBC News.

"As soon as we started to undo some of these [pandemic restrictions], you started to see the viruses come back, you saw more sinus infections, and then, not surprisingly, you ended up seeing more brain abscesses," Shah said.

But schools largely re-opened in early 2021. "The kids had been out of lockdown for quite some time," McCullough said. "So I doubt that's a possibility."

And in a later CNN report, health correspondent Elizabeth Cohen said the experts she spoke to also said pandemic restrictions likely weren't the cause. Some even called the proposition "ridiculous."

McCullough told The Defender it is important to note that the causes of abscesses are always multifactorial.

Clinically, he said, to diagnose the cause of a child's abscess, a doctor would need to know, for example, if a child had taken a recent vaccine, if they had other immunoglobulin deficiencies, COVID-19, recent middle ear infections or congenital heart disease.

Commenting on whether the COVID-19 vaccine could be a contributing factor in the spike, McCullough noted two points from the Accorsi study, which analyzed cases from 40 hospitals across the country over several years and did a more detailed analysis of 94 cases identified through a national call for cases.

First, the rate of child brain abscesses does fluctuate seasonally and the abscesses in the study were in the range of normal fluctuation. But, the most recent 2021-2022 spike, since the vaccines became available, shows a more sustained rise than the previous spikes.

Credit: Center for Disease Control and Prevention

Also, only 25% of children with abscesses in the study had been vaccinated for COVID-19, but the study began in 2016, long before COVID-19 vaccines were available.

Given that, McCullough said, "Just by looking at that graph, I'd say the vast majority of kids who got the abscesses [in the 2021-2022 spike] were vaccinated."

McCullough said a possible contributing cause could be "immune imprinting" where the vaccine basically distracts the immune system. The immune system constantly looks for the spike protein, thus impairing its capacity to function properly.

"It's such a simple question to ask," he said, adding that he doubts they ever will.

The FDA authorized the Pfizer vaccine for 16- to 17-year-olds on Dec. 11, 2020, 12- to 15-year-olds on May 10, 2021, and 5- to 11-year-olds in October 2021.

Dr. James Thorp, a board-certified obstetrician and gynecologist, also told The Defender the causes are likely multifactorial, and that he believes suppressed immunity related to COVID-19 vaccinations could play a contributing role in the spike in abscesses.

"There is ample evidence that COVID-19 vaccination causes immune injury and it increases the risk of infection not only to COVID-19 variants, but also to all other opportunistic infections, such as these," he said.

Thorp said he also thought masking could play a contributing role because studies have found an increased risk of infections with masks.

Brain abscesses are rare events and there has been little research on their possible link to COVID-19 vaccines. At least one case of spinal cord abscess was linked to a COVID-19 booster in an adult, according to a study published in Vaccines.

Brain abscesses following COVID-19 vaccines also have been reported to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS). VAERS reports of adverse events don't prove causality, but the CDC considers VAERS to be a key "early warning system" for detecting unusual or unexpected patterns of adverse event reporting that can signal safety problems with a vaccine.

One common way to analyze VAERS data is through proportional reporting ratio (PRR) data mining, as recommended by the CDC/FDA. Using PRR, a researcher compares the reports of specific adverse events suffered after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine to reports made after receiving any other vaccine to see if there is an indication that the COVID-19 mRNA vaccines cause more adverse events than vaccines generally considered by the CDC to be safe.

Thorp said CDC/FDA's "preferred" method of analysis favors the conclusion that a novel vaccine is deemed safe and effective because it compares new vaccines to existing vaccines rather than to a placebo. Those existing vaccines, regardless of how safe they are deemed to be, have a baseline of deaths and injuries associated with them.

That creates the false appearance of "safety" in the novel vaccine or at least diminishes that danger signal.

Thorp used the VAERS MedAlerts to perform this analysis on the VAERS data for brain abscesses reported as adverse events from vaccination among all ages.

He found that since 1990, when the VAERS database was created, there have been only two cases of abscesses reported for the influenza vaccine, versus 26 cases reported for the COVID-19 vaccine in just under 2.5 years, which, he said, is statistically significant (p<0.001).

He also compared the numbers of brain abscesses reported for COVID-19 to those reported for all of the vaccines in the entire VAERS database since 1990. He found there were only 13 abscesses reported for all other vaccines combined for that entire time period.

Thorp graphed the data (below) to show the risk ratio — the likelihood of an event happening in one group versus the other. It is shown in the figure below.

This figure shows there is a 172-fold greater risk ratio of a brain abscess with the COVID-19 vaccines compared to that of the Influenza vaccines (95% confidence interval of 38.9 to 758). This risk ratio for comparison of the COVID-19 vaccines to ALL OTHER vaccines is 60.9 (95% confidence interval of 25.6 to 145). The CDC/FDA recommends a danger signal if the risk ratio is 2 or greater. Credit: Dr. James Thorp

"This is a significant danger signal," Thorp said, "and merits urgent further investigation."

Subscribe to The Defender – It's Free!

First Name.. Last Name.. Email.. SIGN UP

SUGGEST A CORRECTION

Brenda Baletti, Ph.D.
Brenda Baletti Ph.D. is a reporter for The Defender. She wrote and taught about capitalism and politics for 10 years in the writing program at Duke University. She holds a Ph.D. in human geography from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a master's from the University of Texas at Austin.

Sign up for free news and updates from Children's Health Defense. CHD focuses on legal strategies to defend the health of our children and obtain justice for those injured. We can't do it without your support

Republishing Guidelines

Children's Health Defense Comment Policy
We welcome relevant and respectful comments. Off-topic comments may be removed.
Please read our Comment Policy before commenting.
Got it

47 Comments Login ▾

Join the discussion…

LOG IN WITH OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS ?

Name

♡ 3 • Share Best Newest Oldest

ThinkForYourself
9 days ago
Could the spike proteins from the jab be getting into the brain and contributing to the formation of those abscesses?
15 0 Reply • Share ›

CreoleGumbo → ThinkForYourself
4 days ago
It is because of the nasopharyngeal biopsies, which are incorrectly referred to as swabs. They are being done by marginally trained unknowledgeable people who are injuring or puncturing the Cribiform Plate and introducing nasal bacteria into the brain.
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Ektor57 → ThinkForYourself
8 days ago
For sure and for certain.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

brbg → Ektor57
6 days ago
We already know the spike proteins cross the blood-brain barrier.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → ThinkForYourself
3 days ago
Of course they are. I have a better question for you: What could be on the swabs that they are shoving up people's noses? Even if I wasn't concerned about physical harm, I wouldn't trust them for a nano second! Sometimes it pays to be "paranoid".
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Joseph C Moore USN Ret
9 days ago
If the multitude of childhood vaccines are a factor in the declining immune system, that is an area that should be studied, and perhaps curtailing the plethora of shots for healthy children should be an option.
15 0 Reply • Share ›

Paul Vonharnish → Joseph C Moore USN Ret
8 days ago
Sorry. "Curtailing" vaccine injections is pretty damn naive'. The human autoimmune system evolved over tens of millions of years. - Well before man began hacking the system into fragmentation. These children are not inherently sick. The "medicinal" profession is...
Nearly all modern disease is the direct result of environmental pollutants and an intentionally poisoned food supply. Doctors who administer "vaccines" are little more than ghouls.

The medical profession is aiding and abetting child molestation and mass genocide. I hope they're really proud of their morbid contributions...
6 0 Reply • Share ›

Penny Michalko → Paul Vonharnish
3 days ago
Your belief that we have evolved over tens of millions of years is based on fake science that comes from those who belong to this world and who do not know the God of Heaven & Earth. The true age of the earth is approximately 6,000 years old. This is the belief of all Christians and Christian Scientists. In the Bible God gives us a complete history and lineage of mankind that allows us to be able to know the timeline of when man was created. I do not believe curtailing vaccines to be naive. It would be supported by the Hippocratic Oath in medicine which is to first do no harm. If vaccines are suspected of causing serious harm, then they should be stopped until further evaluation could be done. It's all about the money! In 1986 when President Regan was pressured by vaccine manufacturers to remove them all liability of vaccine injuries, and he complied it sadly opened pandora's box. The number of vaccines given to children exploded and without a doubt it is because they are only interested in making money.
0 2 Reply • Share ›

Krimbus
9 days ago
The way they were JABBING THOSE DAMN LONG QTIPS - SO HARD UP INTO THE BACK OF THE NOSE - probably ruptured the blood brain barrier from the force of it! It was insane what they were doing.
My cousin got cancer in the area right behind where they jabbed her through the nose!
If the blood/brain barrier was damaged that way.. perhaps later, when children were getting colds & sinus infections - then, those germs could migrate through the compromised blood/brain barrier, into the brain.. ALL DUE TO THE PCR TEST TEARING THE BLOOD/BRAIN BARRIER.
14 0 Reply • Share ›

Nancy Drew → Krimbus
9 days ago
Spot on!
4 0 Reply • Share ›

CreoleGumbo → Krimbus
4 days ago
YES! That is exactly what is happening! They are damaging or puncturing the Cribiform Plate (the soft spongy bone that separates the nose from the brain) and in doing so are introducing nasal bacteria into the brain which caused meningitis and or abscess.

AS AN MD I HAVE BEEN SCREAMING ABOUT THIS FOR 3 YEARS AND NO ONE LISTENS!
I HAVE WRITTEN TO CHD AND STILL NO RESPONSE. I ONLY HOPE AND PRAY THAT MAYBE SOMEONE WITH PUBLISHING ABILITY READS THIS.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Krimbus
7 days ago
It's amazing what people will allow themselves to be subjected to, if they are scared enough. Many of the people committing those atrocities weren't even medically qualified and obviously know nothing of human anatomy! If anyone tried to shove something up my nose; I would shove them into the next millennium! Another part of the insanity I don't hear anything about, is medical people and business owners alike, holding a temperature GUN to the forehead of HEALTHY people - to determine whether or not they are sick...nothing symbolic about that, is there! It didn't seem to go on for too many months; although, it's something that never should have been allowed! That also applies to the masks, distancing, the mass coercion to take the experimental nanobot shot; and pretty much everything else that we've been subjected to over the past three years! CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY!
2 0 Reply • Share ›

CreoleGumbo → Ricky Ricardo
4 days ago
100% on target. I cannot tell you how angry that temperature taking this was. Your body temperature is personal information and no one has authority to do that without your consent. EVEN THE ACLU AREED WITH AND STATED AS MUCH! See my comments to Krimbus above.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Co-Pilot → Ricky Ricardo
4 days ago
Whenever they held that thing up to me or my girls I pulled away and insisted on the wrist!
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Co-Pilot → Krimbus
4 days ago
You beat me to it! That was my first thought as well! Some nurses were just skimming the inside of the nostril (which is all that is required to gather bacteria from the nose). Others were shoving that stick well into the nasal cavity and could have very easily punctured the blood-brain barrier, I don't give a crap what doctors say! It was painful and that's NOT normal or required.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

jprexena
9 days ago
What level of EMF's are they exposed to, including 3-5G, how many vaccines, did they take the Covid jabs, shedding, microwave weapons, etc. ?
These attacks are deliberate that are designed for control and depopulation agenda purposes.
11 0 Reply • Share ›

Double_Up
9 days ago
The vaxxes just keep killing.
9 0 Reply • Share ›

Ektor57 → Double_Up
8 days ago
And that is their ONLY purpose.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Double_Up
3 days ago
The gift that keeps on killing!...couldn't resist!
Doctor: Are you ready for your lethal injection? Oblivious Patient: Sure...What's "lethal" mean?
Doctor: It's just another term for "Safe and Effective". Oblivious Patient: Oh; okay, I'm ready!
1 0 Reply • Share ›

CAE71
9 days ago
In the vaccines, it breaches the blood/brain barrier, also people shed from the vaccine and even if they didn't get it but everyone else did, there could be repercussions.
8 0 Reply • Share ›

Sarah Renee
9 days ago
What about 5G? Especially all of the wireless headphones these days. I read somewhere that EMF's can encourage fungal growth. I don't know how accurate that is, but sounds like a possible correlation to me. I wonder if all these kids live close to 5G cell towers or go to school with them close by?
6 0 Reply • Share ›

Paul Vonharnish → Sarah Renee
8 days ago edited
Yes. Electromagnetic induction indeed stimulates fungal growth, as well as molds. I have many studies related to these phenomena. Here's a brief excerpt from Dietrich Klinghardt: >
Potential mold hazards - Dietrich Klinghardt
Published on Aug 14, 2011

see more
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Sarah Renee
3 days ago
I read somewhere that Apple's Airpods communicate with each other - right through the brain (shortest distance between two points). In any event; inside your ear, is very close to the brain! I found a few links with slightly different perspectives, regardless...there is definitely cause for concern. Going on my own logic and reasoning, I would not want any wireless device in my ear!
https://emfempowerment.com/...
https://discussions.apple.c...
https://emfadvice.com/emf-r...
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Jennifo → Sarah Renee
8 days ago edited
Absolutely undoubtedly can. That's why ivertin & H*Q works. They are anti-parasitic in nature. We all are more bacteria than DNA. That is why we ALL must detox often to rid parasites from our bodies. One bout of bad meat or water & we have bacteria in us further. You must get rid of it. Then it comes back, then you do it all over again. Sugar feeds bacteria & yeast.

My thoughts are that's why you now see antennas & 5G paddles EVERYWHERE. A lot on buildings that pop up over a few days. This all started in the lockdown. Most airports have them every 50 ft on the ceilings. Gee, wonder why. And WHY are cell companies pushing FREE cell phones & watches AND iPads?? Sound like the Convid shot push??

I've had to remedy EMFs in my home & body & have studied that in homes where there are people who have symptoms of EMF sensitivities, they usually have mold somewhere that is growing (& usually is from a WIFI/dirty electricity/EMF sources).

99% of people leave their WIFI routers on ALL the time (completely unnecessary). There is evidence that the electric frequency (remember we are all energy & frequency = Nicola Tesla) & is the same frequency as the mold (parasites). It doesn't matter if the mold (bacteria/parasite) is on a wall or in our bodies.

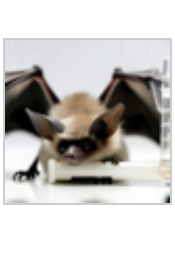
Genius really, whoever thought of killing us with our own bad health habits. Unfortunately it's so sinister & people are clueless & blindly trust mainstream Dr's. who don't believe food is medicine & that nutrition is the key to life.
0 0 Reply • Share ›

DJK
9 days ago
So what has changed in recent history? There has been a consorted effort to take over the health care industry, and create fear, as one of many means necessary, to create a one world government, under the pretense of the great reset. Too much tyranny, psuedo-science, and mandates, by a select few, without our consent. When you take the wisdom of our creative Father's word out of government, in this world, you have chaos in a wilderness that affects all of mankind. In the beginning there was no sickness, but there was disobedience. A good harvest is all about planting good seeds, in good soil, living water, and good light.
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Russell
9 days ago
As a retired neurosurgeon, when a resident in Charleston, S.C., we saw a number of brain abscesses, most were either secondary to mastoiditis, sinus infections, or injectable drug

Donate Now
You make the difference.

Latest News



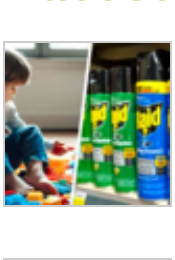
'Absolutely Reckless': NIH Allows EcoHealth Alliance to Resume Coronavirus Research

'Just Like Regular Pork': FDA Grants 'Investigational' Approval for Pork Products Made From Gene-Edited Pigs

More Pesticides on Kids' Food? EPA Wants to Greenlight Chemical Linked to Reproduction, Developmental Issues

MORE NEWS

Latest Views



Chemical in Popular Bug Spray Brands May Cause Neurodevelopmental Damage

Top 20 'Nonprofit' Hospitals Pocketed $23 Billion in Taxpayer-Funded COVID Aid

Can We Reboot the Environmental Movement — So It Protects Freedom, Too?

MORE VIEWS

Get FREE News & Updates!
First Name..
Last Name..
Email..
SIGN UP

Get Text Alerts
Sign up for breaking news from The Defender.
Currently only eligible for numbers in the U.S. and Canada.
1234567890
Phone
REQUIRED. Phone number must be in a standard 10-digit format: 1234567890 or 123-456-7890 abscesses, most were either secondary to mastoiditis, sinus infections, or injectable drug addiction. Even then, they were unusual. I suspect they are related to the vaccine we need to know were these cases vaccinated or were infected. A very interesting find. I doubt the spike protein is in the brain and if it is it would not cause a bacterial abscess. The S1 segment activates the microglia in the brain and would not cause an abscess. But, a vaccine-induced defect in immunity would cause a bacterial infection that could migrate to the brain from the sinuses or mastoid.
CONTINUE

4 0 Reply • Share ›

Sue Peters → Russell
9 days ago

Russell, What is your thought on this preprint? S1 in the parenchyma. Perhaps it could cause the inflammation, in combination with the bacteria, that leads to the abscess? https://www.biorxiv.org/con...
Short Summary: The accumulation of SARS-CoV-2 spike protein in the skull-meninges-brain axis presents potential molecular mechanisms and therapeutic targets for neurological complications in long-COVID-19 patients.

1 0 Reply • Share ›

C. M.
9 days ago

5G installed by my home, I can see it, headache every day for a year. Tried everything I could think of holistically and then blood work and MRI. Everything pointed to a healthy body. Did research, long story, but discovered if I put a piece of screen (ordinary screen for windows) on my head especially covering the most painful spot, kinda like a Yamaca the headaches ceased. 98% gone. I wear wigs so I wear it underneath and at night it just molds to my head. I put net over it and fold the edges in. Not everyone is built the same so not everyone will be affected in the same way. It has been about four months. It works. I hope this information helps someone.

Oh, I am not vaccinated and have never had a pcr test. I said before I would let someone stick that up my nose I would spit on it but never had to because I am retired and didn't have to put myself in that situation. Intuition is a God send.

I also understand about the tin foil hat. 😂

2 0 Reply • Share ›

Jennifo → C. M.
8 days ago

Are you by chance thinner? I've learned that those (women usually) who are thinner are more susceptible to EMFs due to less 'insulation' either muscle or fat. My body voltage when read by an EKG type device was higher than my husbands (I am 115# & my husband almost 200lbs).

I believe it has something to do with muscle holding more water than fat. I find this stuff interesting!

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Joe Dirt
9 days ago

I believe a large part of this is likely covid fear. Kid has a runny nose, cough, ear ache and the parents ignore it because the kid may be tested for covid and then everyone has to stay home for 10 days. So, what is the option? Don't go to the doctor of course because then they won't get tested and the covid will run its course.

Add in the fact that the vaccine results in immune suppression and a bacteria like strep can get a foothold and lead to serious problems like brain abscess which would normally be knocked out in a few days of antibiotic treatment.

Also note that the parents most worried about covid are also the most likely to have had their kid jabbed and it becomes a perfect storm situation.

Strep in all its different strains is something our body is exposed to and fights off successfully constantly. It rarely leads to serious infection because it is highly treatable with antibiotics.

2 0 Reply • Share ›

Paul Vonharnish → Joe Dirt
8 days ago

It's not a vaccine. It's an IQ test...

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Cynthia McKinney PhD
8 days ago

I did this research one year ago: You Need to Peruse This Document - 1) To Understand What You're Witnessing and 2) To Help Those Who Were Bamboozled https://www.allthingscynthi...

1 0 Reply • Share ›

CreoleGumbo
8 days ago

ITS THE NASOPHARYNGEAL "SWABS."
The untrained people doing these misnamed "swabs" are using the wrong technique. You can easily see it on TV when they are shoving those things up the nose parallel to the nasal cavity with no appreciation of where that so called "swab" is going.
FACT: 1. The implement that they are using is either a brush or a curette. It is NOT A SWAB, as in a Q tip designed to swab over tissue. The brush or curette is used because tissue is being removed. It is a de facto biopsy!
FACT 2: By directing the implement straight up they are puncturing or traumatizing the Cribiform Plate, whch is soft spongy bone that separates the nasal cavity from the brain. In doing so they are introducing nasopharyngeal bacteria into the brain thus causing abscess.
UNFORTUNATELY I HAVE BEEN SCREAMING ABOUT THIS FOR OVER A YEAR BUT NO ONE IS LISTENING!
THE FIRST PAPER WRITTEN ABOUT THIS WAS IN THE BRITISH LITERATURE AS EARLY AS SUMMER 2021.

1 0 Reply • Share ›

GrownWoman
9 days ago

Prolonged mask use in combination with rhinoviruses?

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Chris H
9 days ago

Radio Frequencies from cell phones, cell towers, wi-fi routers etc. have been known to injure the blood brain barrier. https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih...

1 0 Reply • Share ›

THOB
9 days ago

If 'we' don't look into any possible connection, we can not be accused of ignoring any signal. No matter how blatant. And we can still claim that COVID-19 mRNA vaccines are 'safe and effective' even without any evidence. Just the MANTRA !!!

1 0 Reply • Share ›

JAOPRAT
4 days ago edited

Vaccines, covid jabs, chemtrails, pesticides, herbicides, chemicals, radiofrequency microwaves, cell towers, 5G, increased fungal infections....all part of the attack on all of us....kids are more susceptible.

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Leslie Taylor
4 days ago edited

Transition-related care for minors is supported by major medical organizations — including the American Medical Association, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Psychological Association" [link below]. Influential government leaders and organizations are being led by perverse, insane individuals. As well, many employees, members and constituents have lost their minds. As I've been learning more and more of the scientific findings of the differences between the specific functions and focus of the left and right hemispheres of the brain I can only deduce that the NWO so called elite and the millions that are following along and implementing their mad plans on all are right hemisphere damaged, leaving the left hemisphere to take over. This global wide insanity may be the result of placing cell phones next to the right side of the head for decades now damaging and disrupting the brains RH neural circuitry. What we are seeing worldwide (especially with the mechanization of everything, including human thought with transhumanism and AI) can be explained by what is seen in neural right hemisphere damaged individuals from stroke, injury or in some cases of schizophrenia, and now cell phone emf exposure. The RH contributes spiritual, intuitive, empathetic thought and seeing the whole, incorporating the LH's faculties with its greater left and right hemispheric neural connectivity. As a result of this worldwide RH damage, the LH has taken over with its inability to see the whole (lesser cross hemispheric connectivity) and narrow focus on mechanization, the inanimate (the dead) and quantification (thus the new god, data). It will also refuse to admit wrong thinking and doing and lie to cover up and believe its lies no matter how absurd. All this is frequently observed with RH damaged patients. Neurons can regenerate and new neurons can be formed. Instead of all this hideous behavior (e.g. mad vaccination mandates, arresting children with behavioral problems (no wonder), the surgical and drug transgendering of children, and global genocide we need to focus worldwide on the healing of the human brain. It could even be uplifting and fun rather than terrifying.

https://www.nbcnews.com/nbc...

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Co-Pilot
4 days ago

"Brain abscesses are rare events caused when a bacteria or fungi crosses the blood-brain barrier and enters the brain, usually because of infection or injury."

This article focuses on masks and the actual COVID vaccine. Considering the cause listed above, why is no one looking at the COVID testing sticks that were shoved well up into the nasal cavity of this kids as the cause? Some were tested EVERY WEEK for school for months!

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Gary Brown
8 days ago

February 5, 2023 Thousands of Cases of Pulmonary Embolism Reported After COVID Shots

An analysis was conducted on reports for the three COVID shots submitted to the EudraVigilance database from Feb. 17 to June 14, 2021. There were a total of 729,496 adverse events out of which 3,420 were thrombotic. 58.1 percent of the thrombosis reports were from Astra Zeneca's Vaxzevria, followed by 32 percent from Pfizer's Comirnaty and 9.8 percent from Moderna's Spikevax.

https://thevaccinereaction....

see more

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Ziga Muhammad
8 days ago

to explain the 25% being vaccinated, the graphene is in the masks and gets to brain through hole opened with tests (which also have graphene on them) , thats where the abcess comes from. 5g towers are antichrist prophet muhammads prophecies clearly lay it out (and remember biblical prophecy on sept 23, 2017) look it up. Called "dajjal" translates to the deceptor.

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Abmeme
8 days ago

Neurological disorders, general inflammation increased in adults who received these shots, also seen with long covid. Maybe we are seeing this increase in abscesses in children due their immune system trying to fight it off, then it forms an abscess. Plus mask use.
Obviously these substances, with the perfect delivery system, break through the blood brain

Children's Health Defense®

Children's Health Defense® is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. Our mission is to end childhood health epidemics by working aggressively to eliminate harmful exposures, hold those responsible accountable and establish safeguards to prevent future harm. We fight corruption, mass surveillance and censorship that put profits before people as well as advocate for worldwide rights to health freedom and bodily autonomy.

EN ES IT FR

SUBSCRIBE - IT'S FREE! BECOME A MEMBER MEMBER LOGIN

Donations are tax deductible to the full extent of the law. EIN #26-0388604

Children's Health Defense • Legal Disclaimer • Terms of Use • Privacy Policy • Donate • Work for CHD • Whistleblowers Welcome • Contact • Social • Sitemap

© 2016 - 2023 Children's Health Defense® • All Rights Reserved